Listen to Two Clues

Parent guide

A short listening and describing game for ages about 4-6.
Your child listens to two clues, then points to a matching picture.
No reading, writing or cutting is needed. Try 5-10 minutes.
An adult reads aloud. Print page 2 for your child; keep page 3 for yourself. The guide and answers can stay on your screen.

Before you begin

Name all six pictures together: cup, hat, ball, book, spoon, key.
Explain any unfamiliar object. These are pictures, not real objects.
Use the picture names throughout so the game tests listening.
Say both clues slowly. Repeat them whenever your child asks.

Model one together

Say: "I am round. You can roll me. Which picture am I?"
Point to the ball. Say: "The ball fits both clues."
Now use the six new clue pairs on page 3 in the order shown.
Ask: "What helped you choose?" Accept pointing or spoken words.

Keep it comfortable

If six choices feel too much, cover a row or offer two pictures.
Always keep the matching picture visible. Give thinking time.
Read one clue at a time, then repeat both. Stop when needed.
There is no score or timed target. Answers are on page 4.

Which object? Point and tell

Look at the six pictures. Listen to both clues your adult reads.

Point to the picture that fits. Tell or show what helped you.

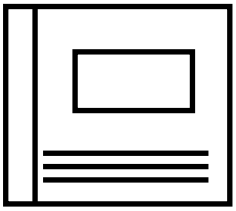
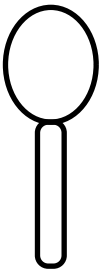
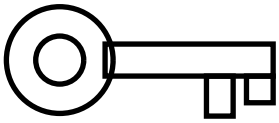
ball



book



spoon



key

Read aloud: two clues

Adult page: keep this beside you while your child uses page 2.

Read both clues, then ask "Which picture am I?"

Repeat as needed. These questions are not a memory test.

1. I have pages.

You can open me to look at a story.

2. You wear me on your head.

In this picture, I have a brim.

3. You can put a drink inside me.

My curved handle is on one side.

4. I fit in a lock.

You can turn me to unlock it.

5. I have a long handle and a small bowl.

You can use me to eat soup.

6. You can roll me.

You can throw me in a game.

After a choice, ask: "Does that picture fit both clues?"

Accept an everyday word for the object, such as mug for cup.

Answers and next steps

Answers for page 3

1. Book: it has pages and can hold a story.
2. Hat: it is worn on the head; this hat has a brim.
3. Cup: it can hold a drink and has a curved side handle.
4. Key: it fits in a lock and can turn to unlock it.
5. Spoon: its small bowl and handle help you eat soup.
6. Ball: it can be rolled and thrown in a game.

Listen to the explanation

An example: "I chose the book because it has pages."
Naming one useful clue is a good start. Repeat the second and check it together. A gesture or pointing is welcome.
The expected answers refer to the six pictured objects.

If your child chooses another picture

Ask what they noticed. Check both clues together without rushing.
For example, the spoon has a handle, but its handle is long and straight. The cup has a curved handle on its side.
Clarify unfamiliar vocabulary, then try the pair again.

Optional next step

Let your child choose a picture and make two clues for you.
Model a clear pair if needed. Many different clues can work.
Keep all pictures available and welcome their own words.
